WOMEN HARASSED IN WORKPLACE HAVE A NEW FRIEND & NON-PROFIT ADVOCATE Professional Women's Anonymous Provides Support, Education & Media Management

(Atlanta, GA, USA) – "Harassment has many faces. We define it as any unwanted action, gesture, or word that causes an individual or group to feel uncomfortable and/or at a disadvantage. By creating standards for reporting harassment anonymously, we make sure that even unreported cases get heard of and - as an alternative - want to educate professionals to prevent devastating consequences of harassment cases," explains founder and President, M. Sandi Aigoro.

Professional Women's Anonymous (PWA or ProWomen.org) announces its third Annual Fundraiser, and Conference on Tuesday, November 3rd (8:30am – 12:30pm); The Conference sponsored by IKEA starts at 8:30am at the Atlantic Station located in Midtown Atlanta, 441 16th Street, Atlanta 30363.

PWA presents: "Don't Let Fear Stop Your Career – Proactive Harassment Management Strategies" will offer workshops to help professionals manage harassment in proactive ways which do NOT destroy careers. Workshops focuses education on "When and how to make a positive move", "Who to call when you are harassed at work", "EEOC: What they can't do", "Financial strategies to make your transition work".

"We are very excited to host our third event to bring awareness for this worthy cause. It promises to be an awareness raising event, and we are hoping for it to be a successful one too! Organizing this educational event and promoting our cause confirm that all our hard volunteer work is worthwhile" says M. Sandi Aigoro, Founder & President of PWA.

M. Sandi Aigoro founded Professional Women's Anonymous in May 2007. Having been affected by un-provable and unreported workplace harassment herself, Aigoro realized that there is a great need for a non-biased neutral forum that allows professionals (not only women) to confidentially express harassment issues and occurrences outside the corporate work environment. PWA offers services such as education, hotline, research and reporting and a confidential discussion forum.
