Gospel Stage Play Stirs and Empowers Audiences while raising money to send Children to Camp

New York, NY (March 24, 2009). “The Road” the dynamic gospel staged play opening at The Greater File Baptist Church on Saturday, April 11th at 4:00 pm, has already opened successfully throughout the Tri-state and Metropolitan area selling out local churches and theaters. Performers include American Idol Regional Finalist, Veronica Dawkins, International and Apollo Award Winners, Melissa Tatro and Richard Tipton.

Gwendolyn Taylor says, “The Road” gospel stage play reflects a parity of life showing the main characters’ journey and rise from homeless and deprivation to empowerment all while making you want to laugh and cry along the way. This stage play is great for all ages.

In her seventh year as a playwright, director, and producer, Gwendolyn Taylor has gone from writing plays for her local church to having her plays open at local theatre venues. Taylor is very excited about her Gospel Stage Play’s role in helping today’s youth. “Our mission is to take the proceeds from the play and send at least 30 children to summer camp free for a week. We know that this would be helpful for parents during these harsh economic times”, says Taylor. Taylor continues, “There will be an essay writing contest that will decide which children qualify to be sent to the Christian camp in upstate NY. The Christian Camp will have many wonderful opportunities for children to participate in such as swimming, outdoor activities and things that will broaden the horizon of our youth.”

Tickets for “The Road” are only $20.00 and Show time is at 4:00pm at Greater File Baptist Church on 505 W. 155th (between Amsterdam and Broadway) New York, NY.
